Email works, the questions are more conversational, so that is why I was shooting for the phone call. My intent was to keep things on an very informal level.

The Gold King Mine has been making a lot of news and I have had a few conversations with other SSPA folks. It has been the biased consensus that some of our skills (e.g, geochemical modeling, quantitative hydrogeology, containment design, etc..) might be helpful. Given the nature of the situation, and having spent enough years around Cutler, I wanted to at least provide a bit of shameless self promotion.

Would it be helpful to contact anyone working on the Gold King Mine? I would obviously be happy to provide information on SSPA qualifications. I realize that there are a wide range of mechanisms for consultants to work with EPA but figured I would initially contact you. Thanks for letting me put this in front of you.

Hi Shaun,
I have seen a lot of headlines on the Gold King release and wondered if you had time for a quick question or two. Is there a good time I could reach you?

Hope the summer riding has been treating you well.
